Year 4

Wednesday 2nd February 2022

Dear parents/carers,

Next half term your child's class will begin a topic on Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) in combination with the Science curriculum and Personal, Social and Health Education (PSHE) curriculum.

As stated in our RSE policy, which is available for viewing on the school's website, we believe teaching RSE is very important because:

- It is a body of knowledge essential to children's wellbeing and understanding of self and relationships.
- It prepares them for puberty.
- It provides children with access to correct information about their bodies and those of the opposite sex.
- It develops children's vocabulary for communicating about themselves and their bodies.
- It helps them to build a positive attitude towards themselves and others.
- It provides children the opportunity to learn about personal safety and hygiene.
- It enables children to acquire skills and attitudes about loving stable relationships.

In year 4, alongside our PSHE curriculum, we will be focusing on:

- Puberty and understanding that is an important stage in the human life cycle
- The physical and emotional changes that happen during puberty
- Exploring respect in a range of relationships including those online

From September 2020, all primary schools in England were required to teach Relationships and Health Education. At primary level all schools will be required to teach about different types of committed stable relationships, which includes LGBT relationships. Parents will not have the right to withdraw their children from Relationship or Health Education at primary or secondary level.

If you have any questions please speak to your child's class teacher.

Thank you

Yours sincerely,

Cristina Jordan
